

MEET GARY SANDER!

MARCH 15, 2012

Gary Sander is the owner of Office Furniture Outlet, and has been in business for twenty eight years. Sander got started brokering furniture nationwide and established his brand in the counties of Riverside, Orange, L.A. and San Diego. Then, he says, he opened up retail divisions in Orange County twenty eight years ago; then Corona. He currently has two locations open to the public (both retail and wholesale): Corona and El Monte. Gary Sander is a warm, community oriented businessman. He says:

"I am proud of the business we have built here in Corona."

But more than simply running his store, Sander believes in giving back. He has made contributions to multiple local organizations including donations to schools, charities, shelters, non-profits, and homeless shelters.

But Sander does more than just give money. Sander gets personal. He has initiated a program where once a month, four men from his store drive through the alleys of the city, and pick up garbage, old sofas and furniture, anything that needs to be thrown away. Then, Sanders says, they take all the refuse they've collected to the landfill. It costs the company about three hundred dollars for every trip, but Sander believes it's worth it to keep Corona fresh and taken care of.

Business is business, but community is obviously something Gary takes seriously. As the saying goes "somebody's trash is somebody's treasure" and part of the company's way of giving back is rewarding teachers in the Corona-Norco Unified School District with supplies. Office Furniture Outlet liquidates company's offices, manufacturing, and warehouse space, included are the pens, pencils, paper pads, key boards, printers, highlighters, and much more. As part of giving back to the community, OFO allows teachers to visit a special space in the warehouse where they can get what they need for FREE. Limits do apply, so the inventory is shared throughout the district. A hidden little secret not advertised, until now, through the Inner Circle.

Sander also believes in maintaining strong connections with the Corona business community. He says he believes in "supporting local businesses and then networking through referring our clients to their local services." He works with city organizations such as The Chamber, ShopCorona.com, and Team Corona. But Sander also has a more personal touch. He says that when he discovers a new business, or hears about one arriving, he gives them a big Corona welcome. He gives them all kinds of information and numbers of other Corona businesses that they might need to get settled including locksmiths, surveillance, printing, and much more. Sander takes responsibility for his home—he wants Corona to be a success because that will help him be a success. Promoting Corona, promotes Office Furniture Outlet.

Sander has a great deal on his floor right now with desks, chairs, and furniture at up to 80% off list price.

Gary Sander says:

"As a resident of Corona for 30 years, I care, and I want our community to prosper. We have been located in Corona for 10+ years and in business for 28 years. We give back to the community. We support the business community and try to bring new businesses to the city that bring jobs here."
